30-day free outreach plan

Where to post, what to say, when to do it and what to measure. One person, about 30 minutes a day, no ad budget.

25 Oct to 24 Nov 2026

All times: Istanbul (UTC+3)

Goal: job board visitors, then weekly email signups

The plan on one page

Week 0	Week 1	Weeks 2 to 3	Week 4
25 to 26 Oct	27 Oct to 1 Nov	2 to 15 Nov	16 to 24 Nov
Set up	Be useful first	First posts	Double down, review

What we post

Pain-point posts that help first: how to spot a "remote" job that isn't open to you. The board is the answer, never the headline.

The hook nobody else has

1.6%

Of 1,029 remote roles on our board (24 Oct), about 1.6% were open to applicants anywhere. It's our own data, dated and true. Refresh the number before each post (ask Claude).

Where

5 Reddit communities, 5 Facebook groups, your WhatsApp Channel every Tuesday, the weekly email every Tuesday.

What we measure

Visits per source (tagged links), email signups, channel followers, comments. One scorecard, every Sunday, page 12.

Should we advertise the career services yet? My recommendation: no, not in posts.

- Why: strangers in a community trust a helpful stranger, not a seller. Selling a $29 to $149 service in week one gets posts removed and accounts flagged.
- Also: your own strategy review says we don't yet know who the paying customer is. Month one is for learning who shows up.
- The soft bridge: when someone in a comment says their CV is the problem, use the free CV check reply (page 9). It's free, it's a reply and not an ad, and it feeds your enquiry log.
- Month 2 test: if the board brings 500+ visits and people ask about CVs, add one services post in groups that allow it.

What "marketing data" can I give you honestly?

I have no performance data for Yireh Careers yet (GoatCounter needs your login) and I couldn't open Reddit or Facebook from here to read live rules. So the timings and targets below are starting hypotheses from standard community-marketing practice, not proven for your audience. The plan is built to test them: two posting windows, one scorecard, and keep or kill rules. Paid ads: not recommended in month one (page 12).

Week 0: set up (Sunday 25 Oct)

1. Rename the old WhatsApp Channel

Open the channel, tap its name, Edit. Picture: yc-mark.png (drafts/whatsapp-profile).

Channel name

Yireh Careers: Verified Remote Jobs

Channel description 237 characters

Remote jobs checked by a person. Every listing links to the employer's own posting and shows who can apply, so you can skip the ones that aren't open to you. New roles every week. Check each employer's eligibility rules before you apply.

First post after renaming Sun 25 Oct, 19:15

We've renamed! This channel is now Yireh Careers: Verified Remote Jobs.

Same idea, better checking: every job links to the employer's own posting and shows who can apply. New roles every Tuesday.

Know someone job hunting? Forward this.

2. Tagged links (so you know what works)

Every link carries its source. Use exactly these; they show in GoatCounter under the source name.

Source	Link pattern
Reddit	https://yirehcareers.vercel.app/?utm_source=reddit&utm_medium=social&utm_campaign=subname
Facebook	https://yirehcareers.vercel.app/?utm_source=facebook&utm_medium=social&utm_campaign=groupname
WhatsApp channel	https://yirehcareers.vercel.app/?utm_source=whatsapp&utm_medium=channel&utm_campaign=weekly

3. Your profile is part of the post

Reddit: use your own account. Bio: "Building Yireh Careers, a free verified remote job board." Being open about it builds trust. Facebook: a normal profile that looks like a person. Never fake accounts or fake reviews.

Reddit: 5 communities

Reddit removes anything that feels like an ad. New accounts and link posts are the fastest way to be removed. So week 1 is comments only.

Community	Who is there	Post	Date (16:30)
r/remotework	People working or looking for remote work	R1 data post	Tue 3 Nov
r/remotejobs	Remote job seekers	R1 adapted	Tue 10 Nov
r/jobsearch	Job seekers, all kinds	R2 filter post	Thu 5 Nov
r/WorkOnline	Online work seekers	R3 question post	Thu 12 Nov
r/careerguidance	People asking for career advice	R5 advice post	Tue 17 Nov

Rules check (do on Sun 25 Oct). I could not open Reddit from here, so I have not read their current rules. Subreddits change them often. For each one, read the sidebar rules, then tick:

Subreddit	Links allowed?	Self-promo allowed?	Min account age or karma?	Needs a flair?
r/remotework	☐	☐	☐	☐
r/remotejobs	☐	☐	☐	☐
r/jobsearch	☐	☐	☐	☐
r/WorkOnline	☐	☐	☐	☐
r/careerguidance	☐	☐	☐	☐

How to post on Reddit

- If links are banned: post the value version with no link. Put the board in your profile bio. Share the link only if someone asks (reply on page 9).
- One post per community per week, maximum. Never paste the same text in two communities.
- Stay 2 hours after posting and answer every comment. Replies decide whether the post lives.
- Best window (hypothesis): Tue to Thu, 16:30 Istanbul (morning in the US East). Test one 20:00 post in week 3.
- Never ask for upvotes. Never send unrequested private messages.

If a post is removed: don't argue. Read the removal note, thank the mods, and move on. A calm account lasts.

Facebook: 5 groups

I can't browse Facebook from here, so I won't invent group names. Search these phrases in Facebook's search box, choose "Groups", and pick the best 5 using the checklist.

#	Search for	Why
1	"remote jobs" or "work from home jobs" (global, English)	Biggest reach, most noise
2	"remote jobs Nigeria" or "remote jobs Kenya" or "remote work Africa"	Strong demand for roles open outside the US
3	"remote jobs Philippines" or "remote work India" or "virtual assistant jobs"	Large job-seeking communities
4	"graduate jobs" or your country's "students and graduates career" groups	Early-career audience (we say entry-level and junior, never "for graduates")
5	"expats Cyprus" or "jobs North Cyprus" or "Turkey remote work"	Your home market. Easier to be trusted

Pick a group only if it ticks these

- 5,000+ members
- Posts in the last 24 hours
- Rules allow links, or links in the first comment

- Not a "post your link" spam wall
- Admins answer members
- English or a language you can reply in

How to post on Facebook

- Request now, post later. Approval takes days. Comment and react for the first week before posting.
- Use plain text, one clear idea, the tagged link on its own line. Facebook hides posts with long link previews in some groups; if the first one doesn't show, put the link in the first comment.
- Best window (hypothesis): 20:00 to 21:30 Istanbul, when evening readers in Africa and Asia are online. Test one lunchtime post (13:00) in week 3.
- Maximum two posts a week in any group. Reply to every comment within 24 hours.
- If admins ask you to stop, stop and thank them.

Don't use "work from home and earn $5,000", fake urgency, or promise income. Your difference is that you check things; keep it that way.

Copy 1 of 3: Reddit posts

R1: the data post — r/remotework Tue 3 Nov; adapt for r/remotejobs Tue 10 Nov

I checked 1,000+ "remote" job posts for who can actually apply. Only about 2 in 100 are open to applicants anywhere.

Context: I run a small job board (Yireh Careers) and every listing gets read for where the employer says applicants must live.

On 24 Oct, 1,029 remote roles on the board:
- about 1.6% were open to applicants anywhere
- about 26% didn't say who could apply at all
- the rest named a country or region

If you apply from outside the US, these lines are worth hunting for before you spend an hour on a cover letter:
1. "Must reside in..." or "authorised to work in..."
2. "Overlap with [time zone] hours"
3. "We hire through [country] payroll"
4. A state or country in the location field, even when the title says Remote
5. Silence. If the posting never says, ask before you apply

What's the worst "remote" posting you've seen?

(Disclosure: I made the board, so I'm biased. Link in the comments if the mods allow it.)

R2: the 30-second filter — r/jobsearch Thu 5 Nov

Applying to remote jobs and hearing nothing? Check this before you blame your CV.

A lot of "remote" roles are only open in one country. If you're not there, your application can be ignored whatever your CV says.

My 30-second filter before I apply:
1. Search the posting for "reside", "authorised" and "time zone"
2. Check the location field: a country there beats the word Remote in the title
3. Look for the company's payroll or hiring-entity country
4. Still unclear? Email and ask before you apply

It saves hours a week. What do you check before applying?

(I run a free job board that shows who can apply on every listing. Happy to share the link if it's allowed here.)

Copy 1 continued

R3: the question post r/WorkOnline Thu 12 Nov

What's the most frustrating "remote" posting you've seen?

Mine: Remote in the title, "must be located in [one state]" on line 14 of the description.

I keep a list of the sneaky ones while building a job board that labels who can apply. Share yours and I'll add the best ones to a "read this first" guide.

R5: how to read a posting r/careerguidance Tue 17 Nov

How to read a remote job posting in 2 minutes (for people applying from outside the US)

1. Location field: country or state? That's the real rule.
2. Search "reside", "authorised to work", "visa", "sponsor", "time zone", "overlap".
3. Payroll: "we hire through an employer of record" is often a good sign for international hires. It isn't a promise.
4. Pay: shown or hidden? If hidden, ask before interview two.
5. Date: a posting over 30 days old is usually stale.

I put these checks into a free board: each card shows who can apply, the original posting date and a link to the employer's own page. Mods: remove this if links aren't allowed. Not selling anything.

Before posting R1: refresh the numbers from the live board (ask Claude: "give me today's worldwide percentage"). Never post a number you haven't just checked.

Copy 2 of 3: Facebook posts

F1: the pain point — Thu 29 Oct, Sat 7 Nov, in different groups

Tired of applying for "remote" jobs and finding out halfway down that it's "US residents only"?

We read the whole posting for you. Every job on Yireh Careers shows who can apply, the original posting date and a direct link to the employer's own page. We never charge you to apply.

See today's roles: https://yirehcareers.vercel.app/?utm_source=facebook&utm_medium=social&utm_campaign=fb-pain

Please check each employer's eligibility rules before you apply.

F2: the tip — Sat 31 Oct

Quick tip for remote job hunters: before you spend an hour on an application, search the posting for the words "reside", "authorised" and "time zone".

If the role is limited to one country, you'll usually find it there.

We label this on every listing: https://yirehcareers.vercel.app/?utm_source=facebook&utm_medium=social&utm_campaign=fb-tip

F3: this week's roles — Wed 4 Nov

5 remote roles posted this week, with who can apply:

[Paste the post from data/whatsapp_post.txt or /kit (Facebook tab), 4 to 5 jobs]

All the roles and filters: https://yirehcareers.vercel.app/?utm_source=facebook&utm_medium=social&utm_campaign=fb-weekly

F4: the poll — Wed 11 Nov

Quick poll for remote job hunters: what wastes the most of your time?

A. Roles that turn out to be one-country only
B. Hidden pay
C. Jobs that are already closed
D. Applying and hearing nothing

Comment your letter. We're building the board around your answers.

F5: three phrases — Sat 14 Nov

"Remote" does not always mean "anywhere". 3 phrases to watch for in a posting:

1. "Must reside in..."
2. "Authorised to work in..."
3. "Overlap with [time zone] hours"

On Yireh Careers every card says who can apply, or says "unclear" when the employer doesn't. https://yirehcareers.vercel.app/?utm_source=facebook&utm_medium=social&utm_campaign=fb-phrases

Copy 3 of 3: replies, channel post

Reply: someone asks for the link

Happy to share it: a free board where each card shows who can apply, the original posting date and a link to the employer's own posting. It's yirehcareers.vercel.app (I run it, so I'm biased).

Reply: someone says their CV is the problem — the only mention of services

If your CV is part of the problem, we do a free quick CV check: you email it, we reply with the three things we'd fix first. Message me and I'll send the details.

Weekly Channel post (every Tuesday 10:00, after the email)

New this week on the board, 3 to 5 roles with who can apply. Tap the links, they go straight to the employer's own page.

[paste data/whatsapp_post.txt]

Forward this to one friend who's job hunting.

Voice rules for every post

- Say "I" on Reddit (you're a person), "we" for the brand elsewhere. No personal name or photo on the brand.
- Say who can apply as the employer states it. Never say "worldwide" unless the posting does.
- No "guaranteed", "no work permit needed", "only job board". Always tell people to check each employer's eligibility rules.
- Short sentences. One idea. One link.

Calendar: 25 Oct to 24 Nov

All times Istanbul (UTC+3). Every Tuesday: weekly email 09:30, channel post 10:00.

Day	Time	Where	What	How
Sun 25 Oct	19:00	WhatsApp Channel	Rename to the new name, paste the new description, upload the YC picture	Channel, tap name, Edit. Text on page 3.
	19:30	Reddit	Join the 5 subreddits. Read each one's rules (sidebar, "Rules"). Fill the rules table, page 4	Write down: links allowed? self-promo allowed? post age or karma minimum?
	20:00	Facebook	Search and request to join 5 groups (criteria, page 5). Approval can take days	Answer any entry questions honestly
Mon 26 Oct	18:00	Check	Open one tagged link on your phone, then GoatCounter: does the visit show with its source?	Tagged links on pages 6 to 9
Tue 27 Oct	09:30	Email	The first weekly job email goes out (scheduled)	Nothing to do. Claude drafts it
	10:00	WhatsApp Channel	Post the weekly roles (Claude: ask for "weekly post")	Open two of the links first
Tue 27 to Sun 1 Nov	17:00 daily	Reddit + Facebook	15 minutes: 3 helpful comments a day on Reddit (no links), react and comment in approved Facebook groups	Answer questions about remote work. Be useful first
Thu 29 Oct	20:30	Facebook (first approved group)	Post F1 (pain point)	Use the tagged link. Reply to every comment within 24h
Sat 31 Oct	20:00	Facebook (second group)	Post F2 (tip)	Different group from F1
Sun 1 Nov	18:00	Review 1	Fill the scorecard (page 12)	GoatCounter, Brevo list size, channel followers
Tue 3 Nov	09:30 / 10:00	Email + Channel	Weekly email, then channel post	As every Tuesday
	16:30	Reddit: r/remotework	Post R1 (data post)	Text post. Link only in a comment, only if rules allow. Stay 2 hours and reply
Wed 4 Nov	20:30	Facebook	Post F3 (this week's roles)	From /kit, Facebook tab
Thu 5 Nov	16:30	Reddit: r/jobsearch	Post R2 (30-second filter)	Check this sub's rules first. If no links allowed, skip the link
Sat 7 Nov	20:00	Facebook	Post F1 in a third group	Reuse the best format

Calendar, continued

Day	Time	Where	What	How
Sun 8 Nov	18:00	Review 2	Scorecard. Which post got the most clicks?	Keep what works
Tue 10 Nov	09:30 / 10:00	Email + Channel	As every Tuesday
	16:30	Reddit: r/remotejobs	Post R1 again, adapted (change title and first line)	Never copy and paste the same post across subs
Wed 11 Nov	20:30	Facebook	Post F4 (poll)	Polls bring comments. Reply to all
Thu 12 Nov	16:30	Reddit: r/WorkOnline	Post R3 (question post)	No link in the post
Sat 14 Nov	20:00	Facebook	Post F5 (3 phrases)
Sun 15 Nov	18:00	Review 3	Scorecard. Kill any group with 3 posts and almost no clicks	Page 10 rules
Tue 17 Nov	09:30 / 10:00	Email + Channel	As every Tuesday
	16:30	Reddit: r/careerguidance	Post R5 (how to read a posting)	Advice post. Link only if rules allow
Wed 18 to Sat 21 Nov	20:30	Facebook (best 2 groups)	Repeat your best-performing format with fresh wording; add 2 new groups	Two posts a week per group maximum
Thu 19 Nov	17:00	Reddit	Comment an update under your best post (new number, new tip)	Keeps a good post alive
Sun 22 Nov	18:00	Review 4	Scorecard
Tue 24 Nov	09:30 / 10:00	Email + Channel	As every Tuesday
	18:00	Month review	Decide month 2: more of what worked, the services question, paid ads (page 12)	Ask Claude to read the numbers with you

What to track: the Sunday scorecard

Fill this in every Sunday at 18:00. It takes 10 minutes. GoatCounter: kayzglobal.goatcounter.com, filter by source.

Number	Where to find it	Wk 1	Wk 2	Wk 3	Wk 4
Visits from Reddit	GoatCounter, source = reddit
Visits from Facebook	source = facebook
Visits from the channel	source = whatsapp
Email signups (week)	GoatCounter event conversion-signup
Email list size	Brevo, Job alerts
Channel followers	WhatsApp
Free CV check requests	event conversion-check
Best post this week	Which one, and why

Keep

Any group or sub where a post got 10+ clicks or 3+ real comments. Do more there.

Kill

Any group with 3 posts and almost no clicks, or any post that got removed twice. Replace it.

Starting targets (assumptions, not promises)

1,000

visits in 30 days

60 email signups

100 channel followers

If you beat them, raise them. If you miss them, that's information, not failure: it tells us which channel to drop.

Month 2 decision gate (Tue 24 Nov)

- Paid ads: not yet. Consider a small test (for example $5 a day on Facebook for 7 days) only if organic posts show people click and sign up. Spending before you know the message works is the expensive way to learn.
- Services posts: allowed to test once the board brings 500+ visits and CV questions appear in comments.
- Email: keep the Tuesday email. It is your best asset: people who gave you their address.